

Abstract

The installation for coating a workpiece with powder in accordance with the invention comprises a powder spray device and a guide arm, the powder spray device being supported in such a manner as to be rotatable with respect to the guide arm around a rotation axis and giving rise to a principal powder spraying direction that differs from the rotation axis.